History and Development of the Co-operative Movement

National 4 Assessment- Teacher's Notes

Learning Outcome 1: Name the early pioneers of the co-operative movement and describe their contribution to its development.

Performance Criteria 1.3:

Explain clearly-

- Why the Rochdale Society of Equitable Pioneers was established.
- What its aims were.
- Why it is regarded as the inspiration for the modern co-operative movement.

Assessment Strategy:

In order to achieve criteria 1.3 students must give, one clear written and/ or oral explanation for each bullet point highlighted above.

1.3 will therefore be achieved by completing a solo talk.

Using the structured 'talk' sheets pupils will prepare a short presentation.

The talk could be presented in front of the whole class or videoed within small groups. It does not need to be a long presentation but it must cover all the points given in the marking guide.

Time should be given in class to write up the talk and to practise before the final presentation is given.

For write up, practise and presentation, about 2 hours will be required but can be worked in as best suits the classroom situation.

As you will know the students in front of you, you may decide how long you want each presentation to be. At the very least it should cover the performance criteria points.

'Talk' sheets should be retained for moderation purposes.

National 4 Assessment- Marking Scheme

Learning Outcome 1: Name the early pioneers of the co-operative movement and describe their contribution to its development.

Performance Criteria 1.3:

Explain clearly-

- Why the Rochdale Society of Equitable Pioneers was established.
- What its aims were.
- Why it is regarded as the inspiration for the modern co-operative movement.

As National 4 and National 5 students may be taught in the same class there has to be room for progression.

As a result the following points are essential in order to achieve 1.3.

1. Why was the Rochdale Society of Equitable Pioneers established? -
 - The Rochdale Society was a small number of textile mill workers.
 - The Society was set up with the hope of serving the community around them with goods they couldn't usually afford, and/or improving living and working conditions.
2. What were the aims of the Rochdale Society of Equitable Pioneers? -
 - The Rochdale Society was based upon 7 main aims/ principles.
 - These aims were:
 - Open Membership = everyone could join and have a say
 - Democratic Control

Dividend on Purchase = money made was given back to society

Limited Interest on Capital

Political and Religious Neutrality = open to all

Cash Trading= no 'tic' meant that debts couldn't build up

Promotion of Education= commitment to communities.

(Make sure that students don't just list the aims but also explain what they mean).

3. Why is the Rochdale Society of Equitable Pioneers regarded as the inspiration for the modern co-operative movement?-

- By 1854, the British co-operative movement had taken up the Rochdale aims/ principles and over 1000 stores were open.
- By 1864 the North of England Co-operative Society, the group that would become the modern Co-op, was born out of the local successes.
- The Rochdale Principles/ aims had changed the world forever, bringing a social conscience to business which echoes loud into the modern world, as all over the globe, co-operatives use the rules set down by those original Pioneers as a basis for their own trading.

Other information that could be added but is not essential for achieving 1.3 includes:

- The Rochdale Principles were born out of the meetings of the Rochdale Society of Equitable Pioneers, a consumer organisation that was one of the world's first co-operatives.

- The idea of a co-operative is that the business is owned by its customers and everyone works together for a common goal, that of good service over the pursuit of profit.
- The Industrial Revolution was expanding and, as a result, more and more skilled workers were falling into poverty, their jobs taken by machines. The Rochdale Society aimed to help these people.
- Any other relevant information.

A specific mark is not necessary but can be given at the teacher's discretion.

Each element of the performance criteria must be passed before the full learning outcome can be given.

In the event that a student does not pass, they are entitled to 2 re-sit opportunities.
